July 18, 1927, Montazzoli

To not be forgotten, we are sending our picture to our dear Felice and Clementina Marcovecchio

The necklace was my grandmother's. I believe it came from her family, the Quinzios. They were jewelers in Casalanguida, Italy. A set of lovely hemstitched sheets and pillows slips, and this necklace* were just a few of the items my mother brought with her to America.

*Fica, Mano in Fica (The 'fig' in hand). The commonest use of this gesture is as an amulet.
