

Antonio Giardino
Mary (?)

The Giardinos lived next door to the DiNizos.

Adelaide
Rose
John
Josephine

John (Cush) was my brother Jake's friend and Josie and Fran socialized.

Mrs. Giardino was friendly. She would sit on her front porch and wave to us as we walked by. I cannot recall ever seeing her leave her property.

Joseph Caprarola
Rosina

The Capraolas lived down the street. Mr. Capraola was a shoemaker. His wife was a very happy, friendly woman.

Elsie
Mllie
Esther
Ernest
Albert

I remember their nice neat home and lovely yard with big trees and lawn chairs. Occasionally, my mother would visit them, and I would tag along.

Emanuel DiFrancesco
Mollie DeNitizio

Mollie and Emanuel lived next door--too close for comfort.

Mollie was not a good neighbor. We kept away from her. Playing the horses was her passion. She could be heard coming home late at night as she drove her car in the driveway, slamming doors to annoy us.

For many years she did not speak to our family. My mother had to bear the brunt of her loud rantings since she was home most of the time.

If it had not been for Mollie's strange behavior, we probably would not have moved out of the neighborhood.

Emanuel was a "puppy" and liked by all of us.
