

Sisters and Brothers

The following years are the ones most vivid in my memory. I was a teenager, and the relationships with my brothers and sisters were close. They were older, courting, getting married, and having children. It was a time of excitement-- a time when we were truly a family.