

Fran is a very caring person with an independent spirit. She has a creative side to her that is evident in her memories written for this history and her ceramic works. She also is very generous with her gifts to relatives. One of my fondest memories-- Fran playing the Missouri Waltz on the old Wurlitzer piano in our living room. She played with such confidence and pizzazz--up to a certain point.

Florence. I describe myself as a person who cares a lot about family, nature, music, art, and other fine things in life. One of my memorable moments was the surprise 16th birthday party given by my friends. The present was a Betty Crocker cook-book. I still have it and use it. The book is all tattered and dirty--but it has the best recipes. And, of course, it is always a reminder of my dear school friends.

Jeanie is the youngest in the family. She is the most upbeat family member, enjoying life to its fullest. Family, entertaining and being a good friend to all are Jeanie's finest qualities. One of my memorable moments--the day Jeanie started kindergarten. I was in third grade and I remember my mother entering the classroom through the swinging door. In her best English, she called for me to come quiet Jeanie down. Apparently, neither my mother nor Miss Speer could stop her crying, so I was summoned to the rescue.
