

“The unbroken path.” An early road on private land in Scotch Plains. This private road belonged to John Marsh. Notice the bridge and triangular wooden arch at the center of the photograph.

The path to Scotch Plains. This photograph is another view of the unbroken path.