An advertisement for the sale of homes, farms, and acreage in Fanwood and Scotch Plains on July 12, 1919, by the estate of Warren Ackerman. The auction consisted of about 80 parcels of land and included the area of Feltville (today known as Glenside Park).

Another old mill located at the base of the gorge. This mill, as well as the others, utilized the water of the Green Brook for power. This building still stands today near the corner of Diamond Hill Road and Bonnie Burn Road.
