

WARMING UP. School One students get the day started in front of the building in an early photograph. Note the more formal attire, as compared to the current outfits worn by children.

LA GRANDE SCHOOL. Also known as School Four, this was the only school building in Fanwood. It was built in 1923 at a cost of $87,268. A lunchroom and candy store on South Avenue provided a place for students to dine. After the school closed in 1978, Fanwood children attended school in Scotch Plains. The building now houses a branch of Mountainside's Children's Specialized Hospital.
