

A BACK-DOOR ANGLE. Taken from the Presbyterian church, this 1950 view looks across La Grande Avenue into the area behind the stores of Martine's west side. The large storage shed of the lumberyard is still present.

EXPANSION. This housing development taking form in 1953, as seen from the intersection of Clement Place and Shady Lane, was typical of the post-World War II building boom. Fanwood's 1950 census showed 3,228 residents. By 1960, the number had soared to 7,963.