

AN OLD PATHWAY. The wooden truss bridge at Sheelen's Crossing permitted passage over the railroad from North and South Avenues. By 1966, it had been replaced by a modern concrete structure.

SPLITTING OFF. The Fanwood Oak shows its age in this 1970 photograph. One of its gigantic branches has broken off, obstructing traffic on Martine Avenue.