

STORIES of New Jersey ⁶¹³

PREPARED FOR USE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS BY THE
NEW JERSEY WRITERS' PROJECT, WORK PROJECTS ADMINISTRATION
44 Chestnut Street, Newark, New Jersey

TABLE OF CONTENTS--1940-41 SERIES

Bulletin No. 1 - ELIZABETH HADDON 4 pp. 2 illustrations

The story of a young English girl who had the courage and will to come to the wilderness of America in 1701 to work as a Quaker missionary among the Indians. With her husband, John Estaugh, she cared for the sick, grew prosperous and founded the town of Haddonfield.

Bulletin No. 2 - STAGECOACHES IN NEW JERSEY 8 pp. 2 illustrations

Once it took nearly a week to cross the State of New Jersey, and the ride was exceedingly uncomfortable. A description of the crude wagons and the muddy, rough roads; how by whipping the horses into a frenzied lather and using steamboats the time for the New York-Philadelphia trip was cut to a matter of hours; and how the iron horse finally did away with the stage horse.

Bulletin No. 3 - THE BONAPARTES IN NEW JERSEY 8 pp. 2 illustrations

An account of exiled Joseph Bonaparte, Napoleon's oldest brother, the luxurious estate he built in Bordentown, his difficulties with his ne'er-do-well nephews, and the re-establishment of the Bonaparte family in France.

Bulletin No. 4 - FRANCIS HOPKINSON 4 pp. 1 illustration

The first in a series on the signers of the Declaration of Independence. One of the most versatile men of his time, Hopkinson, commonly known as the first American composer, was accomplished in literature as well as politics.

Bulletin No. 5 - LIFE IN A LENAPE VILLAGE 4 pp. 3 illustrations

An account of the life and customs of the tribes of the Lenni Lenape in Sheyechbi (New Jersey) which describes their houses, food, their daily work, the harvest festival and the marriage ceremonies.

Bulletin No. 6 - JOHN WITHERSPOON 4 pp. 1 illustration

The second of the signers of the Declaration series. Witherspoon was a Scottish Presbyterian minister whose fight for democracy in the church of his native land made him the outstanding representative of his faith and president of the College of New Jersey (Princeton). The story of his part in the struggle for American freedom.