That loud sibilant buzzzzzzzing you heard around Scotch Plains this past summer was the pennant bug in Chief Erholm's bonnet.

Up until the villainous Mountain side constables took Chief Harry's boys into camp by a 6 to 4 score in boys into camp by a 6 to 4 score in the play-off game and the Fanwood copsters followed it with a 15 to 9 lambasting, Harry tickled the little bug under the antennae and cooed to him in a form of baby talk but we feel the details are too intimate for publicity.

The little bug has gone AWOL and the pennant will not fly in Scotch Plains this year. But, like the true Dodger fan of old, Chief Harry says, "Watch us next year." Well, we may not have the police pennant but we do have the trickiest keystone combination in the league.

Reystone combination in the league. Remember that 'oriel' (cross-word for bay-window) Sgt. Jimmy Osnato sported before you went away? Well thereby hangs our tale. On a hard-hit ground ball down toward second, Jimmy races over to ^{Al} intercept it, bends over to make a ^M stop, emits a loud o-o-o-oof! -- and comes up smiling WITHOUT THE BALL. Anticipating the play, Johnny An-drusky has backed up Jimmy, pounces on the ball and fires it to first. luk

Yes, it's the trickiest play we have ever seen around the keystone adi 1 A Î sack. Only one thing wrong with it VAŐ -- the runners always reach the bags safely.

SGT. JIMMY STOOPS TO CONQUER. *****

Better news comex from another quarter though in the report that quarter though in the report that the CRESTWOOD ACRES soft-ball team turned the tables on the FANWOOD MENS' CLUB by the tune of 9 to 5. Charley Rittweger's work on the mound and Bill Horning's spectacu-lar catch of a foul fly highlighted Crestwood's revenge. (Now Don Cowel can crow over Kenelmn Harris out 1n the far maches of the Pacific). the far reaches of the Pacific). 计计计计计计

We covered these police and Grest wood games out of a sense of duty as a reporter. (Are we heading for trouble making that confession). But, when we want to see a real GOOD game, know where we'd go? To where ever the Walker-Turner (Plainfield) girls team was playing. Now THERE'S a team. We think they can take over the cops, Crestwood or Fanwood any day of the week. For know-how, ability, pulchri-tude and charm, they've got everything stopped.

Look the team over yourself.

STORIES OF OLDE SCOTCH PLAINS

HISTORY OF SCOTCH PLAINS SCHOOLS

The first school of which we The first school of which we have any record was erected sometime after 1768. A copy of a deed now in the possession of the Board of Educa-tion indicates that a piece of "land near the Scotch Plains Meeting House" was deeded for the purpose of build-ing a school "Data land was given ing a school. This land was given by an early settler, William Darby, for the sum of four shillings. This school as nearly as can be determined was located just north of the present Baptist Church along Park Avenue. The picture below is a photograph of the old school.

The inscription on the sketch indicates that this school was erected in 1780, apparently the second school house. This building is still stand-ing, although moved to a new location on Stout Avenue where it now serves on stout avenue where it how serves as the residence of Isen Neal. The school, as most educational institutions in those days, was or-ganized by the church, in this case 'The Scotch Plains Baptist School So-ciety'. Income for operating the school was designed from the munical school was derived from the pupils' tuition of $1.872 per quarter. Con-sidering the fact that education was not compulsory and attendance poor, the teacher did not fare so well fi-The average salary was nancially. about $90.00 a year. The records in-dicate that the first teacher was William Cole, a local surveyor.

Another early teacher was William A note on the back of the Cleaver. original photograph makes the follow-ing statement, "I taught in the Old ing statement, "I taught in the Old School House at Scotch Plains in the years A.D.1822, 1823, 1824 and 1825; and recognize in the accompanying photograph a very accurate represen-tation of the old building," signed William H. Cleaver.

Another early school in the town ship was the old Jackson School House erected in the early 1800's near the corner of Terrill and Cushing Roads. It was here that the late ArthurBrisbane, famous editorial writer, receivbane, famous editorial writer, receiv-ed his early education. The Jackson School ceased to be used as a school sometime after the middle of the nineteenth century. The building stood for a number of years but was finally torn down in 1910.

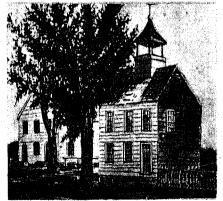

David Hand, once a pupil in the Jackson School, wrote the following verse about the school:

- How dear to this heart is the school of my childhood, When fond recollections present it to view!
- The blue pail and dipper, the
- slab seats we sat on, And the old hickory gad that we
- youngsters all knew;
- The teacher's big arm chair, the deaks that stood by it, And the stove, and the woodbox we all had to fill.
- the little old school house! O. The storm-beaten school house! The Old Jackson School House that stands o'er the hill!

The Willow Grove School in anoth-er section of the town was built in 1814 in the neighborhood of Lamberts Mills.A picture of this early school now hangs in the present WillowGrove Chapel. This building was in use un til 1870 when it was replaced by a new school house. Many pupils attend ed from Westfield which at that time was part of this school district. Miss Anna Littell was the laxt teach er to teach in this building in 1903. Many of you will remember her as a most inspiring teacher of history. This building was replaced by a new two-room wooden building known as School No. 2 on Raritan Road just beyond Two Bridges. The Board of Ed-ucation minutes of 1904 report "that the new School No. 2 was opened and occupied by the children residing in that portion of the district on Monday, October 31. The opening exercises were participated in by the President of the Board of Education and Principal H. D. White of School No. 1." Miss Littell was elected No. 1." Miss Littell was elected Principal of this building at the increased salary of $500 per year.
