

As Publishers We Make Our Mark

This organization, one of the busiest in school, is a senior class project. All the members consider it a privilege to work on the year book, for every senior wants something tangible by which he can remember his school and classmates. This year's staff worked exceptionally hard and their theme was good, and well worked out. Many anxious moments preceded each deadline but the work was turned in and the 1950 Culmen went to press. The staff tried to present the unusual in this yearbook and to make it outstanding; whether it is or not is left for you readers to decide.
