

On December 9, the Scotch Plains cage season broke open under the hands of the team's new coach, Charles Dettmar. Aply controlling the court were big Lou Loumé at center, Rog Hatfield and Herby Byard up forward, and Bob Angle and "Peach" Brunner guarding the rear, all of whom, along with the frequent help of Bill Brigden, Don

Egan, and Willie Donatelli, led the team to a successful season. As the "Culmen" went to press, the Blue Raiders held a record of three wins in five starts, having lost an extremely close game to their arch rivals, Dunellen, 34-31, but, nevertheless, looking forward to their return bout in the remainder of the season's schedule.
