

FOREWORD

The conclusion of the formative high school years always leaves an emptiness in the hearts of departing seniors. We, the Class of 1957, firmly believe that these years have been our happiest, our richest, and our most important ones. The fruits of our years here have yet to be clearly discerned. Whatever success we may achieve, we owe to you, our Alma Mater.