

FIRST ROW, left to right: M. Greene, H. Jensen, J. Koch, C. Armerding.
 SECOND ROW: J. McCook, S. Orrico, J. Sochan.

"Don't harangue it to death."

SOCIAL STUDIES

CHARLES ARMERDING

This is one of the most important departments. Its aim is to help us understand the world's geography and its history from the Neanderthal Man to the present and to keep us aware of current affairs. This year a new course, International Relations, has been added to the curriculum. It is a study of the newly-independent nations of the world.

Through movies, debates, and discussions we learn more about people and their ideas and we become better equipped for world citizenship.

"Gee, oh whiz!"

one of McCook's Committees

