

"I hope he doesn't notice the erasure."

BUSINESS EDUCATION

Mr. Adkins

Visitors passing through the upper corridors of S.P.F.H.S. are often alarmed at the sound of a strange clicking noise, but their fears are joyfully alleviated as they learn it does not stem from some mechanical menace designed to wipe us off the map, but rather from one of the sections of our well co-ordinated business department, the typing class. Together with the bookkeeping and stenography classes, we have the department that is doing a fine job in preparing an important segment of our student body for the business world. The successes of its many graduates have proven in the past and will continue to prove in the future what a fine job they are doing.

"I'm not even ready, and he's almost done."

A shadow of genius.

Harry L. Adkins, Jr.
Temple University
B.S.

Joan B. Byorek
Marywood College
B.S.

Charles J. Dettmar
Trenton State College
B.S.
Montclair State
College, M.A.

George Esposito
Trenton State
Teachers' College,
B.S.
Columbia Teachers'
College, M.A.
Professional Diploma

Jean Poquette
Montclair State
College, B.A.

Lillian Tallent
Trenton State
Teachers' College
B.S.