

AUDIO-VISUAL AIDS

Mr. Francis Malesky

Under the superior supervision of their advisor, Mr. Malesky, the boys in the Audio-Visual Aids Department are always ready to serve us. They aid the teachers in their presentation of almost any subject with tapes, records, and films. Each boy has been taught to use the equipment under the care of the department and, in addition, he is responsible for the knowledge of the backstage lighting and other backstage operations.

"I really SHOULD study."

STUDY HALL

Most students will eventually discover a few of these long awaited periods in their schedules sometime during their high school years. Talking, sleeping, whispering, sleeping, doodling, sleeping, and even homework are among the many things accomplished in these periods. Both students and teachers find these times a helpful and restful (?) pause in the daily schedule.

OFFICE STAFF

Busy sounds of efficiency coming from the main office, guidance office, and vice principal's office assure us that our secretaries are hard at work, as usual. All of us have had to go to one of the offices at one time or another during our high school years, and the staff has always been pleasant and patiently willing to help in any way they can. We appreciate their capability in handling all of the business which keeps a large high school running smoothly.
