

Dr. Tyson is seldom idle. The school is not run solely within the school—its success depends upon its interaction with the community.

defeated in Scotch Plains and Fanwood 3000 to 1000. Its defeat will have grave effects on the quality of education offered at Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School. "Without the addition we will undoubtedly have to go on a double session program." A double session demoralizes the faculty, makes co-curricular activity virtually impossible, and lowers college opinion of our school.

This will be a problem of the future—a problem Dr. Tyson tried to solve before the fact. Dr. Tyson's proposals and aims show that he is undoubtedly an educator first and foremost. He had a dream which was unquestionably worthwhile, and hopefully it will some day cease to be merely a dream.

Lunchtime provides a welcome escape from his demanding duties as principal.

Dr. Tyson and Dr. Stamm at a faculty meeting. Frequency of such meetings was increased to provide better coordination and efficiency within the school. Dr. Tyson also met with a representative group of students to discuss student problems and questions.
