

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT PREPARES STUDENTS FOR PRACTICAL LIVING

KATHY MULVANEY

VITA VALENTI

The purpose of the Home Economics course was to prepare the student for future family life. Not only were cooking and sewing taught, but also skills on how to manage a home and budget a dollar wisely.

The Clothing courses offered basic skills in clothing construction and tips on selection and care of fabrics. Students learned that sewing may be an enjoyable as well as a money saving hobby.

In cooking classes boys have proved themselves to be just as neat and efficient as girls. All students learned the importance of interesting and well-balanced meals.

In Family Living, all aspects of the household were discussed; from finances to child care. The girls were provided with an understanding of the family problems they will have to cope with in the future.

Male students willingly participate in the Foods Program. Miss Valenti, Colton Helbig.

LOIS B. KENYON

The entire school was saddened by the deaths of its two Home Economics teachers, Mrs. Tressa Perry and Mrs. Lois B. Kenyon.

Mrs. Perry passed away in the spring of 1969. She had been a member of the faculty for twenty-five years.

Mrs. Kenyon died in December of 1969 after twelve years of service to our High School.

The students, faculty, and administration deeply regretted the passing of these two warm individuals whose many years of dedicated service benefited hundreds of students.
