

english department

... "encourage proficiency in communicating and literary expression ... students realizing their potential as interacting human beings" . . .

... expanding ... diverging ... reaching out in all directions ... expressing the interests of the students ... new materials, new courses ... "can i squeeze in just one more mini-elective?" ... black literature continues successfully ... advanced composition as a preparation for college freshman english course ... the immediate future ... a possibility of two film courses ... students and teachers ... learning how to make the independent study program work ... a previously empty study area ... harboring now the pleasant sound of talk ... "the independent study area is really being used" ... the exchange of ideas ... student projects lining a once empty shelf in the independent study area ... cross media kits ... an individual program ... field trips ... diversity ... "guess what? i'm going to see jesus christ superstar" ... great changes here at s.p.f.h.s. in the next few years ... expanding, improving the learning process ... "it's a growing thing, we're still crawling, we haven't even taken the first step yet ... but we're on our way" . . .

fundamentalists speak to senior english classes.

"i never knew these questions could be so hard." mike fredericks.

pamela perka

maureen basta

linda cifelli

geraldine curtis