

Drama Club

... a performance on stage ... actors holding the attention of the audience ... club members working behind the scene with lighting, set changes ... all striving for a successful opening night ... the Drama Club ... uniting talents, creativity and determination to achieve perfection ... long, tiring rehearsals; memorizing lines, blocking, becoming their character ... making posters to catch the attention of passers-by ... transforming young girls to old wrinkled women through make-up ... capturing the mood and time of the play through set design ... costumes completing the characterizations ... all of these coming to perfection in Arsenic and Old Lace ... fine actors, breath-taking scenery, realistic make-up and costumes ... hoping for more success in the March Talent Festival ... a club that can take you anywhere; through the past, into the future ... always an exciting experience. ...

"I wish Fern would learn her lines." Fern Shupeck, Roberta Fine, Lee Turtleaub.

"But I use a dandruff shampoo!" Marc Nelson, Randy Taylor.

"What do you mean you won't pay the ransom?" John Cross, Roberta Fine.

