

Elinor Young poses for her life-drawing class.

Elinor Young, Richard Lupo.

*"Get that cat out of here before I sneeze!"
Richard Lupo.*

ART DEPARTMENT

Art is a means of self-expression which allows the student to interpret and record the visual world through various materials. Concentrated effort and patient practice are necessary to coordinate the eye and hand. Among the courses offered are ceramics, painting, photography, lettering, sculpture, crafts and textiles. The Art Department guides the beginner while encouraging the more advanced student to experiment with his imagination. Students work independently during free periods on individual projects of their own choosing. The Art Department provides many channels for self-expression by developing an appreciation for handcrafted goods and increasing the student's awareness of the world around him.