

SOCIAL STUDIES DEPARTMENT

The Social Studies Department focused on current events and actual problems that face society, not only in the United States, but all over the world. This year especially, the department kept in step with the nation through participation in the Bicentennial debates which were presented on an extra-curricular basis. Through the Alternative Elective program, which was at a zero level, junior students were able to choose unrequired electives. Due to the loss of books and high rate of theft the learning resource center was redesigned this year. Accommodating approximately six hundred students per week, the center was a vital asset in the development of social study skills.

"I can't understand why no one takes me seriously." Joel Glazer, Sue Fairclough.

Rita Wade shows disappointment in the attendance of her tenth period class.

FIRST ROW: Joel Glazer, Linda Jewell, Mary Davie, Herbert Jensen. TOP ROW: John Koch, Manuel Cancellia, Paul Hale, Jon Abeles.