Near the front of the old section, passers-by can often catch the faint strains of music coming from the choral and band rooms. It's the Music department hard at work offering students opportunities to participate in all types and levels of music. This department is obviously succeeding, as more and more students are enrolling in vocal and instrumental music programs, plus music theory courses.

The Music department extends beyond classroom teaching, however; this year the marching and concert bands, which consistently receive "superior" ratings in competition, are representing the school at Bald Eagle Nittany Pageant of Champions. Choral students compete for the honor of performing with the annual New Jersey All State Chorus. Both instrumental and choral students perform in concerts at the school as well.

The Music department aids students in discovering and exploring the endless world of music.
