

Over the past three years the Industrial Arts Department has extended its curriculum to meet the needs of its increasingly varied enrollment. In addition to the standard wood and metal working classes, drafting, auto shop, and employment orientation, as well as the innovative Cooperative Industrial Education program, two new courses have been introduced according to Department chairperson, Mr. Lauten.

These are Career Development and Home Repair and Maintenance, non - vocational alternative curricula. The most recent change in the department is the addition of a seventh staff member, Mr. Steven Barna.
