

Yet we are as individual as links of a chain are different. Some links are strong, others are weak. We as individuals bring to the school both our special talents, as well as our imperfections. There are areas in which we excel, as well as areas in which we struggle to succeed.