

ENGLISH

The English Department, as always, continues to enrich the student's knowledge of literary and verbal skills as well as reemphasizing the basic grammatical areas also necessary in the art of communicating. Literarily, and verbally, the emphasis provided by the department this year was on the concept of effective thought expression. Due to the efforts of this fine department, students depart Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School with a stable foundation for the further study and use of their English language in their future years.
