

Some of the events that have transformed us are the organizations that we belonged to, our friends, perhaps the teachers we have had and also personal experiences. These events during our lifetime have made us the people we are now, and we hope that they have prepared us for the road ahead. The paths we will now take may be different from the ones we have been on, but in the future we will still be reminded of our life here.

