

As the year closes, relationships we have developed now stand out more clearly as we realize that a phase of our lives is over. Whether we leave to pursue other studies in college or to advance ourselves in our careers, we carry these memories which provide links with our past.

