

When the puzzle is completed, each of the sides must end as a solid color, similarly we retain our separate identities when each school year is completed. The end of each successful high school year brings with it a feeling of accomplishment in the same way that mastering the Rubik's cube does.

