

We met different types of people, joined groups and clubs that interested us, and each of us became even more unique individuals.

