

Do you gamble? You bet you do: every day of your life. You may not necessarily travel to Atlantic City and roll dice or play a slot machine, but take a look around you, your life is a game of chance. Taking risks is what life is all about because you must gamble to achieve your goals. You take risks knowing full well that you sometimes win and sometimes lose, but you include risks in your daily routines, because they can provide you with adventure, growth, and confidence.

