

Our experiences are shared. Forever we will be together, forever friends. The people you are with daily — funny, funky, pretty, smart, and special — the ones you lean on or lend a hand to, make our school confinement a little less traumatic. Whether it be crisis or comedy, our groups of friends are always there.

Even when locked inside our institution of higher learning, struggling to express our individuality, we

