

GROUPS

all have our particular groups. Together, we, and not the building, are the school in its entirety. Though it may at times be difficult, we try to broaden our horizons and reach out to new people. Brilliant and innovative ideas are confined within our minds, waiting for their release.

Based upon who we are, and what we do in our period of confinement, our activities have understandably much to do with our relationships.