

And the rules. Yeah, THE RULES. You can't wear a hat. You can't wear shorts — unless it's recreation time — when you want to. You can't play cards when you've got a moment to yourself. THAT'S what prison's all about: silly rules. You ask, "Why?" and they answer back, "Because!"

And when you break the rules, you get punished. If you're late, if you don't do your work, if you sass the guards, you get punished. And if you're REALLY bad, they put you in solitary. Isolate you away from everything and everybody.

So you keep to yourself, work out on your own, jam to your own tunes, and obey the rules, and everything's cool, you know?

Now, THAT'S prison, NOT high school.

Right?
