

CULMEN

If a picture is worth a thousand words, then the Culmen has a million stories to tell. But, unlike many books found on shelves, these stories are the products of more than one author.

Countless hours and strenuous effort go into compiling so many tales between the covers of a single book. The dedicated Culmen staff withstands the pressure of meeting deadlines and striving to win the approval of the student body.

Alas, when the final yearbook has been distributed and there are satisfied smiles on the faces of seniors and underclassmen alike, the Culmen staff knows they've done their job well.

Long after we have read the many mysteries, adventures, and romance novels which have begun to collect dust on our shelves, the Culmen, which combines all of these into one, will still have new stories to tell, and old stories for us to remember.

