

Stuffing Our Faces

There's no doubt about it, Spiffy High students absolutely loved to eat! They took any chance they got to grab a bite, whether it was before school, between classes, during classes, or in their favorite class - lunch! Did these opportunities satisfy them? Not quite. The students enjoyed stuffing their faces outside of school even more and could be found at their favorite eating hot spots or just having a quick snack. Spiffy students' stomachs were always growling, and students were always ready to buy a fundraiser candy bar, to wait on a long lunch line, or to meet up with friends at their favorite fast food restaurant. No matter the time or place, walk-in or drive-through, they were always in the mood to fill our tummies! By Nicole Honeycutt

PIZZA

TIME!

Can't make it home for your after school snack? Junior Michael Fragna and senior Elizabeth Stamler saved the day for sophomore Stephanie Santiago as she bought a slice of pizza to stop her craving. The pizza was sold to raise money for the Italian Honor Society.

RUNNING LATE!!

Unfortunately seniors Tayler Montagna and Brooke Price don't have time to eat a well-balanced breakfast at home. Fortunately, SPF's cafeteria was open in the morning, which gave them a chance to feed their brains before first period. Maybe they should have rethought soda!

Senior Billy Albizati races to finish up his breakfast in his first period Health class. When asked about his breakfast all he had to say was, "Smores Pop-tarts are so good!" Albizati got to purchase them from the school cafeteria which was open for breakfast.

CAUGHT YAI!

Senior Charles Salotti tries to sneak a 100 Grand bar in Mrs. Santucci's English class. "I'm too hungry to wait until sixth period lunch," said Salotti. Students couldn't resist fundraiser candy bars.

BIG BAD SENIORS!!

Seniors Kyle Gates, Marco Giasullo, Dakim Gaines, Sean Robinson, Lisa Berezna, Adam Yellen, Jess Cicalese, Chris Annese, and Justin Day are all smiles in sixth period lunch. Food and friends - what else did they need to have a good time? "Lunch is where I go to relax and then laugh at the goat (a.k.a Kyle Gates)," exclaimed Chris Annese.
