

TACKLING EQUATIONS

Right: Hard at work, Joseph Fallon tackles new material for math class. For Fallon, junior year was difficult, but rewarding as well. "Junior year is definitely harder than any other year because you have pressure of school, on top of pressure involving getting into college and SATs," said Fallon.

BELOVED BEOWULF

Below: Brittany McDonald takes notes while reading Beowulf. McDonald's junior year was filled with English, math, Zoology, history, and a few art classes. However, her busy school schedule didn't change her attitude about junior year. "It's not harder than any other year, but there is more pressure because you know that senior year is coming," noted McDonald.

DON'T BE LATE!

Bitsy Kipping rushes to get to class so she doesn't miss anything. Throughout high school, Kipping did her best, and junior year was no exception. "Junior year lives up to the hard expectations because I had to worry about grades, SATs, and trying to learn AP techniques," said Kipping.

Juniors Facing the Future

Junior year was often considered to be one of the most difficult years of high school. But, was it really as hard as students said? With PSATS/SATS, the HSPA test, and the start of the college process, perhaps it was. However, it could be exciting as well! Many individuals turned seventeen, which meant getting their license and hitting the open road. Class members also attended junior prom, one of the events to which they looked forward throughout high school. The final decision about the year's difficulty, however, was split; some thought it was no different from their sophomore and freshman years. By Kelly Dougher

ENOUGH COMPUTERS TO GO AROUND

Stacey Subbie surfs the web during her English class. Most teachers in the high school took advantage of the many computer labs in the school. Subbie said that junior year was very challenging. "The sooner it's over, the better," assessed Subbie.

THE NEXT STEP IS...

After watching a movie in Italian class, Michelle Alleman and Nick Giannaci listen as their teacher explains the after-movie assignment. Junior year went very well for Alleman who was determined to do well. "It hasn't been the hardest year for me because I knew that I had to do well, so I worked really hard," commented Alleman.

CPR CONNOISSEURS

Alex Kuck and Nick Mondri read their textbooks during health class. Junior health taught students how to administer CPR and gave them a chance to take the American Red Cross Test to become certified. "Health class was a good time to get away from the stress of all my academic classes," said Kuck.
